

Judy Brown, Mezzo-Soprano singer

Edinburgh-born mezzo-soprano Judy Brown trained at the Guildhall School of Music & Drama and is a sought-after recitalist, opera and consort singer. Described by Opera Magazine as singing with “steadiness, purity, dignity and command”, she works with the Monteverdi Choir, Dunedin Consort, Academy of Ancient Music, and Scottish Opera. She has performed on stages as diverse as Tokyo’s Suntory Hall, the Wigmore Hall, the Vienna Musikverein and St Magnus’ Cathedral, Orkney. Praised for the “dynamism and delicacy” of her singing, recent performances include a solo lieder recital in the Queen’s Hall, Edinburgh, Bach’s B Minor Mass in Southwell Minster and Mozart’s Requiem in St Martin-in-the-Fields. Plans for 2019 include Copland’s In The Beginning for the Chapter House Singers, Handel’s Brockes Passion performances and recording with AAM, and the Angel in Elgar’s Dream of Gerontius in Southwark Cathedral.
